School board discusses submitting state resolution

To request stricter punishment against threats of violence

By DAWN HANKINS
dawn@richardsonmediagroup.net

Bedford County Board of Education members unanimously moved last Thursday on drafting a resolution to the state which would ask for stricter jail time for those committing criminal activity, acts of violence and even online threats toward TN public schools.

Basically, the board expressed that enough is enough.

Board members openly discussed how many school leaders across the state are having to deal with more and more violence/threats in schools.

School Board member David Brown made the initial motion that the request for stricter punishments be sent up the channel to the state legislature. He said the goal is to get it into the booklet, not a leaflet, which might just fall on to the legislative floor and die.

School board member Brian Crews, who is an attorney, was asked to work on this resolution. Time is of the essence-Sept. 30- if the resolution is to make it properly to the floor this session.

Crews, who recently retired as an SPD police officer after 25 years, said in the regular school board meeting that there truly needs to be actions and solutions.

He shared that he asked his fourth grader this week what scares her most. He said she told him "An active shooter."

Lengthier juvenile detention time, at least a year, was mentioned for youth who threaten the safety of students, teachers and schools.

The board said they believe now is the time to move on stricter action at the state level. It is a problem, the board discussed, that is not going to fix itself.

There was some discussion about local policy changes, but state and federal law generally supersedes in criminal cases/acts of violence, active shooters, at schools.

School Superintendent Tammy Garrett said, "We need people to know that we're serious about this."

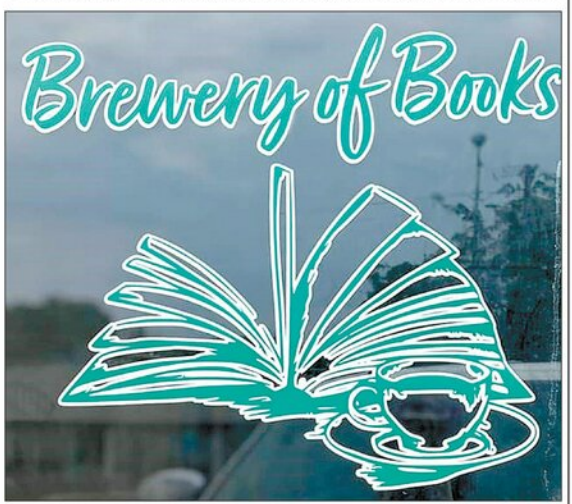
Former Lane Parkway auto parts store transformed

Brewery of Books opens with genres of reads, coffee



By DAWN HANKINS

'You can never get a cup of tea large enough or a book long enough to suit me' author C.S. Lewis

The fall season of pumpkin spice and everything nice gets kicked off in style with the soft opening this week of Brewery of Books at 204-A Lane Parkway.

The new bookstore, in a suite of the former Napa Auto Parts building, is currently in a soft opening through Oct. 1 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

While there are shots to be purchased at the bookstore, this emporium of novels and preschool readers, is only giving out shots of coffee and cups of tea. Flavors range from French vanilla to pumpkin caramel scone flavor.

While they're graciously giving the community a sneak peek, there's still a lot of work to be done. So, the store will close temporarily Oct. 2-6 and reopen on Monday, Oct. 7. The big grand opening is Oct. 12.

No one could be more excited than the new owners, Michele Poole Upton and Kirsten Upton. The mother and daughter note they're a small-town family, chasing a dream to show the power of books and the love of neighbors and friends which can come from a quaint coffee shop.

Many know Michele already as she's also employed as a Bedford County first responder. She is also a volunteer fire fighter in Unionville and a former dispatcher.

Because of Michele's service in the military as well, daugh-

FAMILY SHARES PUMPKIN BOUNTY

T-G Photos by Dawn Hankins

Jacob Houston and his 6-year-old son, Gatlin, have worked since early summer on their first pumpkin patch on their family farm. They've carefully tended the crop during the dry season and completed all the necessary steps for a bountiful harvest. The Houstons have so many pumpkins, they've opened Houston Pumpkin Patch at 141 Smith Road, off the Unionville Deason-Road. See more photos on page 12 today.

ter, Kirsten, has designed what she's calling a tribute wall inside the bookstore. She's asked for action photos, patches and photos of those in uniform.

Some folks in the community have posted on social media that the new bookstore is so highly anticipated that it has been the topic of their dinner table discussions. Others said they've been dreaming of such a shop for Shelbyville-one which is affordable and enjoyable to visit.

Michelle said if she had to pick her favorite genre of book, it likely wouldn't be horror, though she has some Stephen King novels available. She and her daughter share a love of poetry.

At 22, Kirsten is already learning the ins and outs of running a business-from inspections to ordering supplies. Her strong suit, she believes, are her barista skills.

"I make the best coffee ever, so I've been told."

But most of all, she says she loves making people smile and laugh. That's what the bookstore ultimately is all about.

"I will also talk your ear off, if I get the chance," Kirsten says with a smile.

Michele adds they're so excited to meet every single one of their customers. More importantly, she wants them to be comfortable when entering Brewery of Books.

So, the building which once housed boxes of auto O-rings and radiator hoses now is filled with comfy seating and the aroma of expresso. The family was putting the finishing touches to some paint work this week.

Perhaps Michele's compassion comes from her first responder work. She could be considered a "hoarder" of books but says she knows that curling up to a good book can easily relieve life's stressors.

The mother and daughter note they feel like they're bringing something great to the City of Shelbyville also in the way of literacy promotion. There is a section dedicated to the younger readers.

Upon talking with the Uptons, a person might come to realize they have a mantra: "Give me a good cup of coffee and a book I love and I'll be happy."

Ya'll come on in this Oct. 7th. Sit a spell. Pick out a new book. And don't forget to warm your soul with a steaming, hot cup of inspiration.

JUST IN TIME FOR FALL

Brewery of Books is currently in a soft opening through Oct. 1 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. The coffee shop and book store is located at 204A Lane Parkway (the former Napa Auto location.) So, the store will close temporarily Oct. 2-6 and reopen on Monday, Oct. 7. The big grand opening is Oct. 12. Spine surgery doesn't have to be scary

Julian G. Lugo-Pico, MD, MSCI

Dr. Lugo-Pico is a Board-Certified Orthopaedic Surgeon specializing in spinal surgeries at Vanderbilt Tullahoma-Harton Hospital, Vanderbilt Orthopaedics Antioch and Vanderbilt Orthopaedics Murfreesboro.

Being told that you are a candidate for spine surgery by your provider can be daunting, but it doesn't have to be. Understanding common reasons why patients undergo spine surgery, how to come prepared for your visit and what to expect during recovery can help. Here's what you should know.

Common symptoms and conditions that may require a visit to a spine surgeon can vary, often including cervical or lumbar pain characterized by a dull ache or sharp pain in the neck or lower back that radiates to one or more extremities. Common conditions can include disc herniations, which can put pressure on a specific nerve causing pain down the arm or leg, frequently referred to as "sciatica"; spinal stenosis which occurs when the spinal canal narrows, putting pressure on the nerves and causing pain and/or numbness that typically worsens with walking; cervical or thoracic myelopathy, which is caused by spinal cord compression that can lead to issues such as loss of balance and coordination; and scoliosis, an abnormal curvature of the spine that often results in chronic pain and inability to stand straight.

If you have been diagnosed with one of these conditions and are preparing to visit a spine surgeon, there are a few proactive steps you can take to ensure it goes smoothly.

Make sure you provide a detailed medical history to your provider, including pre-existing conditions or lifestyle habits that may impact the procedure. In nearly all cases, you will need an MRI or other advanced imaging to help your provider determine the best way to approach your condition. It is important to note that imaging and results can take days to be shared and reviewed, so getting a jump- start on sharing them can help expedite the process. Lastly, it is encouraged that prior to seeing a spine surgeon, you try a course of physical therapy and consider seeing a pain management provider, neurologist or non-operative spine provider to determine if there are any non-surgical options available for you.

Not everyone who qualifies for spinal surgery requires an intensive surgery; in fact, you might be surprised by common procedures and their post-care requirements. Of course, procedures and their recovery vary by condition, and any concerns related to your personal medical history should be discussed with your provider. Minimally invasive surgeries involve smaller incisions, less muscle trauma and shorter recovery times. Common procedures such as spinal decompression or cervical fusions and disc replacement allow patients to go home the same day or within 24 hours. More extensive procedures, such as scoliosis correction or multi-level spinal fusions, may require a longer stay. These larger operations may also require extra rehabilitation to ensure a safe return to function and activity. Physical therapy can begin as soon as the day you have the procedure, or shortly after, to help you get back on your feet. Recovery plans are determined on a case-by-case basis and even take into consideration the support you have at home. Depending on the surgery, rehabilitation sessions post-procedure could be recommended to regain strength and mobility, or your provider may provide a list of restrictions for you to follow, such as avoiding bending, twisting or lifting more than the specified amount of weight.

While no surgery is risk free, advances in technology have made spine surgery safer than ever; in fact, the risk of serious complications like nerve damage or paralysis is minimal. It is normal to feel worried about surgery, but knowing the facts and discussing the procedure with your surgeon in detail can help. If you have been diagnosed with a spinal condition and standard non-surgical interventions have not been successful, consult with your provider to see if you should be referred to a spine surgeon for evaluation. The right procedure could be the key to improving your quality of life.

Great crowd celebrates with Center for Family Development

The Center for Family Development in Shelbyville recently received the T-Mobile Hometown $50,000 Grant. CFD staff, friends and family celebrated their blessings last Friday in the courtyard next door to the office with a Pop Up and Play Courtyard Celebration.

A special event of face-painting, music and cornhole was the highlight of the day. Also were the Southern Asspitality Miniature Donkeys.

The American Heritage Girls kicked off ceremonies with a special flag ceremony. Government officials were on hand for opening remarks.

The T-Mobile grant allows CFD to revitalize the outdoor courtyard space and give back to the community. Staff notes that it's the CFD way of reaching more families and spreading the word about the vital programs offered.

TCFD, located at 124 Public Square East, provides services ranging from adoption services, Healthy Families services as well as Relative Caregiver services. The mission statement is "Building forever families through provision of services which empowers children and families to thrive."

Solutions to Boost Literacy

Reading is the foundation to all learning, and 3rd grade is a critical milestone. Before 2020, only one-third of 3rd graders in Tennessee had met expectations on the TCAP in ELA. The department's Reading 360 initiative coupled with other supports have created a comprehensive approach, boosting reading skills for kindergarten through 3rd grade students to read on grade level and empowering them to excel in 4th grade and beyond.

Gov. Bill Lee and the Tennessee General Assembly convened a special legislative session in January 2021 to pass meaningful legislation to mitigate learning loss and strengthen Tennessee's K-3 literacy strategy, including the Tennessee Literacy Success Act and the Tennessee Learning Loss Remediation and Student Acceleration Act, which established early literacy interventions, high-dosage, low-ratio tutoring, and summer learning camps.

Statewide TCAP data shows the positive impact of enhanced ELA academic standards driven by Tennessee teachers that went into effect in 2017 and the emphasis of early literacy supports, propelling the state to reach the highest rates of 3rd and 4th grade ELA proficiency.

Third grade and 4th grade students who may need extra learning supports have multiple pathways available to them.

For additional information about Tennessee's 3rd and 4th grade learning acceleration strategy, including high-dosage, low-ratio tutoring and summer learning camps, go to the Tennessee Department of Education's website.

FEATURES FROM THE BIBLE

TRUTH IN SCRIPTURE

Satan

A discussion of bible characters must include a word about Satan.

Satan is first mentioned in Genesis, Chapter 3 where he took the form of a serpent or snake and enticed Eve to believe him instead of believing God. Eve, in turn, enticed Adam to do as she had done. Through their disobedience, all of mankind became alienated from God.

Satan, (the devil, Lucifer) was evidently an angel who desired to be equal to the one who had created him (Isaiah 14:12-14) and was cast out of heaven (Luke 10:18).

Satan tried to use the Apostle Peter (Matthew 16:23) and did enter Judas Iscariot (Luke 22:3) and moved Judas to betray Jesus.

The last book of the bible speaks of Satan being loose on the earth, but it also tells of his ultimate defeat (Revelation 20:7-10).

Middle Tennessee Pharmacy Services to Acquire Long-Term Care and MEDIpack Business from TwelveStone Health Partners

Deal strengthens Middle Tennessee Pharmacy Services' statewide footprint and allows TwelveStone Health Partners to focus on fast-growing infusion service model

Murfreesboro, TN, September 5, 2024— Middle Tennessee Pharmacy Services (MTPS), a member of Guardian Pharmacy Services, one of the nation's largest and most innovative long-term care (LTC) pharmacy companies, today announced the acquisition of the long-standing LTC and MEDIpack service lines from TwelveStone Health Partners, a leading provider of comprehensive chronic care medication services. The deal will enable MTPS to better serve residents in assisted living, skilled nursing, and behavioral health communities, as well as individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities and outpatient consumers throughout Tennessee, Southern Kentucky and Northern Alabama.

Russ Spivey and David Brown co-founded Shelbyville-based MTPS in 2005 and have steadily increased their footprint over the past 19 years through the 2012 opening of Guardian Mid-South Pharmacy in Memphis and the 2013 launch of East Tennessee Pharmacy Services in Knoxville. This latest expansion will increase their total customer base by 17%. The newly acquired pharmacy, located in Murfreesboro, will continue to operate as TwelveStone, serving its existing LTC customers and their residents. All 34 TwelveStone employees will join the MTPS team.

"We share TwelveStone's commitment to exceptional customer service and care, and we're excited to build on their strong reputation serving senior living residents in the region," said Russ Spivey, co-president and founder of MTPS. "This acquisition enhances our ability to better serve LTC communities across Tennessee, and areas in Kentucky, and Alabama, and we look forward to integrating TwelveStone's talented team into our operations."

The acquisition comes at a time when TwelveStone is narrowing focus on their rapidly growing infusion service business including 21 infusion centers in the southeastern US across Georgia, Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Said Shane Reeves, chief executive officer, TwelveStone Health Partners, "We are honored that our LTC Pharmacy and MEDIpack service will continue in the hands of such a trusted provider."

Reeves and Rick Sain built a small healthcare business into a multi-million-dollar enterprise reaching across the state of Tennessee with specialties in retail pharmacy, compounding, respiratory, infusion therapy, home medical equipment, immunizations, diabetic care, LTC pharmacy and MEDIpack. For more than 25 years, the thriving LTC pharmacy business has serviced 140 facilities representing 40,000+ patients. MEDIpack, created by TwelveStone, offers pharmacy services to nearly 3,000 patients with chronic conditions across 11 states.

"This divestiture of ancillary service lines allows us to concentrate on the fast-growing infusion service model the company has created," shared Jozef Nuyens, chief strategy officer, TwelveStone Health Partners.

Founded in 2004, Guardian Pharmacy Services now has 50 locations serving 36 states. For more information, visit www.guardianpharmacy.com.

ANOTHER GREAT EVENT

FCVFD Photos

Flat Creek Volunteer Fire Department held another great community barbecue last Saturday evening. It's a lot of work but supports one of the best causes in the neighborhood.

On Saturday, Sept. 21, members of First United Methodist Church on the square, joined by members of the Harris Middle School Student Council, packed 10,152 meals for the not-for-profit Rise Against Hunger.

Each four-meal plastic bag was packed, in an assembly-line process, with rice, soy protein, vegetables and a vitamin supplement packet to be stirred in after cooking. The bags were carefully weighed, sealed and boxed for shipment anywhere in the world were poverty, famine or natural disaster cause hunger. A gong was sounded each time the process passed a 1,000-meal milestone.

Rise Against Hunger works with churches, clubs, businesses and other organizations to hold meal-packing events; the host organization raises the funds to pay for the meals and then packs them for shipment. Rise Against Hunger, in addition to distributing the meal packs around the world, works with self-sufficiency, sustainability and other programs to help address long-term poverty as well as short-term hunger. More information about the organization can be found at riseagainsthunger.org.

First UMC held a Rise Against Hunger packing event in 2022, as part of its bicentennial celebration, and decided to hold another one this year. Rheaetta Wilson has served as point person for the event; the Rev. Abe Zimmerman is church pastor.

SUDOKU

Here is how it works: Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Mary Ellen Blue

Mary Ellen Blue of Shelbyville, passed away peacefully in the comforts of her home with her family by her side.

Mary was born in Dexter, Missouri on June 10, 1947, to Donald Gibson and Melba (Weigel) Johnson. She married the love of her life, John Michael Blue on February 27, 1971. Together they renewed their wedding vows four times and shared 53 years of marriage.

Mary loved the outdoors. Over the years her hobbies have included roller skating, boating, and riding in Mike's newest convertible find while wearing her wide-brimmed hat. Mary never met a stranger and was known for her kindness, her giving, her classiness, her beautiful smile, and we must never forget her laugh; it was irreplaceable.

When you saw Mary, you saw her honey, Mike, and there was no mistake they were together as she had them matching perfectly. A classy couple for sure.

Making the switch to early-morning workouts

One of the common complaints among people who want to be more active is that they can't seem to fit exercise in when work, school or family responsibilities get top billing. According to the Better Health Channel, lack of time is a common perceived barrier to physical activity, with men age 30 to 50 saying they are typically too busy with work and family commitments to exercise regularly. And when leisure time is limited, they'd much rather choose recreational activities over heading to the gym.

There are many ways to make exercise fit into a busy schedule, and one of them is to switch when you exercise. Opting for early-morning workouts can free up time later in the day. Plus, there are some benefits to getting a fitness fix in while the sun is rising. Get started with these tips.

• Skip afternoon caffeine and evening alcohol. Getting up early to exercise will likely require an adjustment period. One way to make it easier to rise and shine a few hours earlier is to limit behaviors that can make it hard to get out of bed. Coffee and other caffeinated products can make it challenging to fall asleep at night if consumed too late in the day. Alcoholic beverages, while they may cause you to fall asleep faster, adversely affect sleep quality. When sleep is compromised, you may be more inclined to hit the snooze button.

• Gradually move your wake-up time. Progressing slowly by waking up about 15 minutes earlier each week can help you achieve your goal without it being a big shock to the system. As you build up to the new wake-up time, fit in short workouts in this newly acquired free time.

• Consider a home gym setup. If the thought of venturing out to a gym or another facility in the wee hours of the morning his unappealing, think about outfitting a space in your home with workout equipment. Doing so may facilitate an early fitness routine.

• Prepare workout gear the night before. The lifestyle experts at Real Simple suggest laying out workout gear and other items needed for the day the night before. This way you can get up and out quickly without forgetting things.

• Enlist a buddy to exercise as well. Having someone to whom you are accountable can help keep early workouts on the docket. A workout pal can motivate you to get exercise in, and you can do the same for your partner. If someone is counting on you, you'll be less likely to skip a workout.

There are benefits to early workouts. Healthline says that early morning workouts are best when the heat rises during the day and you'll be doing outdoor activities. A 2018 study published in the International Journal of Obesity found that those who exercise first thing in the morning often choose healthier foods and eat less the rest of the day. Many who exercise early report greater overall energy and focus throughout the day as well.

TVA Encourages Public Review and Comment on Draft Integrated Resource Plan

- TVA's draft 2025 Integrated Resource Plan (IRP) and Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) explore ways to meet the region's power demand in coming decades.
- Public meetings and webinars will begin Monday, Oct. 21, and are scheduled across TVA's seven-state region. TVA encourages review and comment on the draft IRP and EIS at www.tva.com/irp
- Download interviews for broadcast and radio with Amy Edge, TVA Director of Customer and Community Relations.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — The Tennessee Valley Authority invites the public to review and provide input on its draft Integrated Resource Plan (IRP) that published today, as well as an associated draft Environmental Impact Statement (EIS). Public comments can be submitted now through Tuesday, November 26.

The draft IRP contains preliminary observations of options available to meet the region's need for electricity in the future. The EIS is a study of potential environmental impacts of the options described in the IRP.

"Public participation in the IRP process is crucial, and we want to hear from everyone," said Melanie Farrell, TVA vice president of valley engagement & strategy. "As we plan for our region's energy future, we need different perspectives and ideas. After the comment period, we will take time to review all of the comments received. We will work with the IRP Working Group to incorporate the comments into the final plan, which we anticipate issuing next year."

For more than a year, the IRP Working Group, which includes individuals from local power companies, directly served TVA customers, academia and research, state governments, environmental non-government organizations, customer associations, community stakeholders and other special interest groups, has worked closely with TVA to develop this draft.

Why is the IRP important?

In development since early 2023, the IRP examines economic, regulatory and market-driven scenarios which are outside TVA's control, as well as strategies that TVA could utilize to respond to these scenarios while continuing to provide reliable power at the lowest possible cost.

"TVA is tasked with expanding our energy system so we can continue to support consumers' needs and also grow with the region's economy," said TVA President and CEO Jeff Lyash. "Working with others, our objective is to find practical solutions that move us in the right direction with the goal of serving the communities and people across this region."

TVA is developing the IRP due to the region's sustained growth in population and power demand, as well as changes in the utility marketplace. Those changes include evolving policies and regulations, industrial electrification, emerging clean energy technologies, and an increased focus on energy efficiency and carbon reduction efforts.

Though the 2025 IRP is not final, this draft contains preliminary observations:

- New capacity is needed in all scenarios to replace retiring and expiring capacity, support economic growth, and enable further electrification of the economy.
- Firm, dispatchable generation technologies are needed to ensure system reliability throughout the year.
- Solar expansion plays an increasingly substantial role, providing economic, carbon-free energy.
- Natural Gas expansion serves broad system needs, with the potential for emerging carbon capture and hydrogen options to enable deeper decarbonization.
- Energy Efficiency deployment reduces energy needs, particularly between now and 2035.
- Demand Response programs grow with the system and the use of smart technologies.
- Storage expansion accelerates, driven by evolving battery technologies and the potential for additional pumped storage.

Golden Eagles Rout Wilson Central on Homecoming

BY NOAH MADDOX

The Shelbyville Central Golden Eagles put forth an emphatic performance in front of the homecoming crowd against the visiting Wilson Central Wildcats, 44-0, on Friday night.

Stephen Bobo continues to grow as the starting quarterback, finishing 11/17 for 246 yards and 3 TDs with zero turnovers. The Golden Eagles as a team finished with 186 rushing yards and 3 TDs, spearheaded by star Robert Bailey. Bailey, who has 9 rushing TDs this year, is averaging just shy of 165 yards/game on the ground, and he was a problem for the Wildcats on Friday night as he went over 100 yards rushing for the third time this season already.

On the flip side, the Golden Eagles' defense pitched their first shutout of the season. After keeping Shelbyville within striking distance against Columbia Central a week ago until the very end, they gave Wilson Central zero chance in the hosts' final non-region game of the regular season.

Both defenses exchanged forcing punts before the Golden Eagles' offense began to kick it into gear on their second possession. Robert Bailey got the scoring started for Shelbyville with a 5-yard TD run to put the hosts in front, 6-0, with 5:12 left in the opening frame.

After forcing another punt, Shelbyville drove into the red zone once again before fumbling the ball away to Wilson Central on a botched exchange inside the five-yard line right before the end of the first quarter.

As the Golden Eagles' defense continued to stifle the Wildcats, Ben Betzelberger would connect on a 32-yard FG with 7:22 left in the first half to extend the lead to 9-0.

Shelbyville then put up another pair of touchdowns before the half, taking a commanding 23-0 lead into the halftime locker room.

The Golden Eagles' defense continued their dominant performance into the second half extending their shutout streak to five consecutive quarters. Meanwhile, Shelbyville's offense found the end zone three more times in the second half as the Golden Eagles continued to separate themselves from the Wildcats, outscoring them 21-0 in the final 24 minutes to win their 4th game of the season, 44-0.

Wilson Central falls to 2-3 (0-1).

Shelbyville Central improves to 4-1 (1-0). They are scheduled to dive right back into Region 5-A play on Thursday night at home against Franklin County, who is 0-5 on the season, LIVE on WLIJ 98.7 starting at 6:45 p.m.

Champs' Offense Struggles At Watertown

BY NOAH MADDOX
noah@t-g.com

The Cascade Champions' offense was unable to get going on the road against the Class 3-A Watertown Purple Tigers on Friday night, with the hosts scoring 13 points in the fourth quarter to win 20-3.

Cascade finished with 52 yards of total offense on the night, and their only points came off of a defensive turnover giving the visitors possession at the Watertown 5-yard line. The sheer size and strength of the Purple Tigers in the trenches was just too much to overcome as the hosts' held the Champions to -7 rushing yards, including sacks, and just 59 yards through the air.

Max Smith led Cascade in rushing with 9 yards on 12 carries. Christian Casey went 5/14 for 59 yards and 1 INT.

Meanwhile, Watertown, who came in averaging just under 80 yards rushing per game as a team, ran for over 300 yards on the night, led by sophomore quarterback Kaden Waldorf. Waldorf accounted for nearly 200 total yards by himself with 134 of them coming on the ground on just 13 carries. Landon Harper only played in the the first half but still totaled 70 yards rushing on seven carries. Landon Oliver came in for Harper in the second half and tallied 61 yards on 11 carries, and Garrett Davis tacked on 62 yards and 1 TD on nine carries. Jesse Bratcher added a one-yard rushing TD.

Watertown came out and marched down the field in less than five minutes to take the lead at 7-0 with 7:23 left in the opening quarter after Bratcher's one-yard TD run. Waldorf led the drive going 4/4 for 41 yards through the air, but would only complete two more passes the entire game after the opening possession thanks to an admirable effort on the back end by the Cascade secondary in coverage.

The Purple Tigers would hold that 7-0 lead into the second quarter until Christian Casey split a couple of blocks on the perimeter to jump the WR screen and pick the ball off, getting all the way down to the Watertown five-yard line to set up a 1st-and-goal. However, Cascade could only go backwards, and were forced to settle for a 27-yard field goal by Gabe Perez-Rubio to make it 7-3 with 8:58 to go in the half.

Both defenses traded stops, and then Watertown started to run the football with Landon Harper and Waldorf, getting down into the red zone with less than two minutes left to go. However, Waldorf put the ball on the ground trying to fight for extra yards inside the 10-yard line, sending both teams to the halftime locker room in a low-scoring affair.

Cascade would get the ball to start the second half, but the Champions could not move the ball, going three-and-out immediately. For the remainder of the third quarter, neither team was able to threaten the opposing team's end zone, sending the game into the fourth quarter with Watertown still in front, 7-3.

However, the Purple Tigers would finally break through the Champs' resistance 36 seconds into the fourth quarter on a 5-yard plunge from Garrett Davis to stretch the lead to two possessions, 14-3.

On the ensuing drive, Casey found Andrew Dowell over the middle of the field for a big gain to get into Purple Tigers' territory, but the very next play he threw an INT to Marcus Reynolds to give the ball back to Watertown with 10:38 to go in the final frame.

Once again, both defenses exchanged stops before Braxton Burris forced Waldorf's second INT of the night. His return got him down to the Watertown 12-yard line after a late hit, injecting Cascade with new life late with five minutes left in the game.

However, penalties and a lack of protection for Casey meant the Purple Tigers were able to push Cascade out of the red zone. This forced the Champs to have to settle for a field goal on fourth down to try and make it a one possession game, but a bad snap withheld Perez-Rubio from ever having a chance to get a kick off leading to the holder, Burris, heaving it to the end zone and into the arms of a Watertown defender.

Garrett Davis would tack on his second rushing TD of the night from 10 yards out with 1:36 left to put an exclamation mark on Watertown's first win of the season.

Watertown improves to 1-4 (0-1).

Cascade falls to 1-4 (0-0) and are scheduled to begin Region 5-2A play at Chapel Hill on Friday, LIVE on WZNG The Zinger 100.9 starting at 6:45 p.m.

Big Mistakes Cost Blue Raiders Against Blue Devils

MT ATHLETICS

Football, at times, can be a very simple game. On Saturday night in Floyd Stadium, the way Middle Tennessee football lost 45-17 to Duke was seemingly as simple as it could be.

If the Blue Raiders don't turn the ball over four times inside their own 25, resulting in 28 points for the Duke Blue Devils on the ensuing drives from the trio of lost fumbles and the interception. If a Blue Raider doesn't get just a little too aggressive, running into the Duke punter on a punt taken inside the Blue Devil five, giving Duke a free first down that ultimately led to another touchdown, there's a good chance MTSU is not only in the game late against the Blue Devils, but maybe even wins.

"I look at this team play, and you take the turnovers out of it, and I think it's a different ballgame in terms of how you're competing and what it feels like," MTSU Head Coach Derek Mason said.

"But you don't get a chance to."

Of course, football is more complex than just wiping the 35 points off the board that Duke scored on those five critical Blue Raider errors. There are the probabilities that MTSU still doesn't score on the drives that were originally halted by turnovers, or that Duke still scores even if they get the ball back in their own territory from a Grant Chadwick punt rather than so close to the goal line as they did on Saturday.

There are no guarantees that despite some aspects of the Blue Raiders getting better (holding Duke to just 216 yards in the air and 3-for-10 on third down, all while rushing for a season high total of 168 yards on the offensive side) that MTSU would've been able to pull things out on Saturday. But the big mistakes made on offense, on defense, which had at least one busted coverage go for a touchdown and special teams never gave the team a chance. That continues to be frustrating a third of the way through the season for the Blue Raiders.

"What we have to do is eliminate the mistakes, eliminate the errors and keep pushing forward, because the breakthrough is going to come," Mason said. "I believe that. I want these guys to continue to believe that. They do. I saw that in their eyes in the locker room. Are they a little frustrated? Absolutely. But you sort of keep your keel in this, you sort of get what you earn."

The turnovers, a trio of fumbles and an interception, all stemmed from similar issues. On running back Terry Wilkins' pair of fumbles, Mason said the back was running too upright, a critique Mason said he mentioned to the back after last week's loss to Western Kentucky. Credit Duke for putting a hat on the ball and jarring both fumbles loose on tackles, but the error, not running through holes or contact with the pads lowered, is correctable. It's something that the running backs work on daily at practice.

"We have two balls with cords on them, coaches pulling on them, stuff like that, stuff that keeps the ball up here, in the V of the neck," said running back Jaiden Credle, who averaged over 10 yards per carry on Saturday after starting the game with a 66-yard touchdown run. "Just running with lower pads, being more physical, and tucking the ball when you're in traffic."

The third fumble, a strip sack of Nicholas Vattiato recovered on the one-yard line, as well as Vattiato's interception in the third quarter, both were forced, in part, but relentless pressure from the Duke defensive front, who were able to cause havoc all night in the Blue Raider backfield. The Blue Raiders managed just 127 yards in the air against the Blue Devils, limited to quick screens and short routes most of the night thanks to the pressure.

But while the short fields made the task difficult, the Blue Raider defense would not use them as an excuse for the scoreline.

"It's going to be difficult, but we've got to nose up, we've got to play football at the end of the day," linebacker Parker Hughes said. "We're the defense, we've got to stop them from scoring."

Mason saw growth from his defense, a plus given the struggles of the past two games in particular, but he knows they're not where he needs them to be four games into the season, echoing his linebacker's comments.

"At some point in time, you've got to put your foot down and you've just got to show some resolve," Mason said. "You've got to sort of erase it a little bit, make them kick field goals...We have opportunities, we just have to strain a little more. Whether that's getting to the quarterback, whether that's getting to the ball carrier, whether that's defending and playing through the hands of receivers.

"That's not coming from a place of frustration, that's just coming from a place where I know what good defense looks like," Mason concluded. "I know how it has to be played. And we're not there. You can trot a defense out there, but you have to be intentional."

Lady Champs Golf Makes Program History, Wins Region Tournament

BY NOAH MADDOX
noah@t-g.com

The Cascade Lady Champions' Golf team made school history on Monday after winning the team Region 5-A Championship for the first time in program history.

Anna Clanton, Tatyana Greene, and Sara Kate Hall are the three seniors that finished first, second, and sixth place overall individually. Since team scoring only uses the top two finishers on every team, Cascade occupying the top two places individually ensured not only they clinched first place as a team, but they will also be playing for a state championship next week in Sevierville as a team for the first time.

"It was pretty exciting, first of all that we made school history, and second of all, we finally met our goal that we've been wanting to for four years," Greene said, who shot a 76 (+4) to take the runners-up spot.

The Summertown Lady Eagles have created somewhat of a dynasty in Girls' Golf in the middle Tennessee area. Coming into Monday's competition, they had won six consecutive Region titles. However, thanks in large part to a masterful display from Anna Clanton who shot a 73 (+1) on the day, the Lady Champs dethroned Summertown to take home the gold plaque.

Ross Creek Landings in Clifton, Tennessee, was the home of this year's competition, and it is a notably difficult course to traverse as a golfer. Despite this fact, Cascade beat out the second-place Eagles by an astounding 15 strokes, 149 to 164.

"There was a lot of high grass, like the rough was really thick, and the greens were really firm, it was like hitting on a rock. The green's were slow," Greene said about the challenges Ross Creek presented.

"Try to hit it in the fairway as much as you can. Obviously you're not going to hit it in the fairway every single time – I sure didn't – but like don't go for the hole in the rough; play it safe and go with it."

"It was my first time playing there [at Ross Creek]," Hall continued, "so I heard going into it that this course was so difficult, and I just tried to get that out of my head because ultimately, if you hit the ball like you're supposed to, and if you play the course, you're going to come out with a good score."

Anna Clanton is pretty soft-spoken off the course, but on the course, she let her clubs yell out loud and clear on Monday, finishing just one over par and taking home the top spot individually. She was so locked in that she didn't even know she was in first place until after she wrapped up the 18th hole.

"I had a good feeling, not that I won but that the team won because of how the people around us and in our group were playing," Greene explained, "and I saw their scores compared to my scores and I was thinking we have a chance. Then I went to go watch Anna [Clanton], and she was playing lights out."

Clanton and Greene have qualified for the state tournament before – this will be Greene's fourth consecutive year – but it has been as individuals. This is the first time they will be competing as not just individuals, but as part of a team.

Last year, Greene posted a score of 76 on the second day while Clanton's best was an 83. However, at state, the competition is over 36 holes and two days, which is different from Regionals. This obviously calls for some slight adjustments from everyone participating.

"It's more mental than anything, like if you play bad the first day you have to stay strong and play good the second day," Clanton said. "You can't let it get to your head."

Of course, there are physical challenges to go along with the mental hurdles.

"Walking," blurted out both Greene and Clanton, before Greene took the initiative to go into a bit more detail. "You're going to be tired, that's just something you're going to have to push through. You're going to be going up hills, you're going to need to catch a breather here and there, but I think we can push through it. Especially playing at [Henry] Horton with those hills...It's definitely harder than Horton but I think we can push through it."

When asked about the mindset going into next Monday and Tuesday, the soft-spoken Clanton had just three words: "We are ready."

The Lady Champs will be competing for the program's first ever state championship on Monday and Tuesday, with live updates coming via TSSAA on their website. The Times-Gazette will also have daily updates posted online after each round is completed. Individual tee times are still to be determined.

Lady Champs Beat Viqueens In Second 'Battle of Bedford'

BY NOAH MADDOX
noah@t-g.com

The Cascade Lady Champions held on late to beat the Community Viqueens 2-1 in Unionville on Tuesday night to complete the regular season sweep in the 'Battle of Bedford'.

After falling in Bell Buckle earlier this season 4-1 in convincing fashion, the hometown Viqueens put up an admirable fight against the district leaders for 80 minutes.

Freshman Olivia Winnett opened the scoring for Cascade in the first half, and then Kesley Shatley scored what turned out to be the game-winning goal in the second half. Stevie Dickenson got on the scoresheet for the Viqueens late.

The game opened with a noticeable lineup adjustment for the visitors with starting midfielder, Sophie Ray, getting the start in goal with Irais Rojas out with a presumed illness. This allowed Community to find a little more room in the middle third throughout the game, stunting a dangerous Cascade offensive attack for a lot of the match.

Lexi Comstock registered the first real shot of the night in the 19th minute when her attempt at goal clanked off the inside of the left post and redirected across the face of goal to stay scoreless. Perhaps shaken to life by nearly conceding first, the Viqueens quickly responded with Audrina Bearden recording the first official shot-on-goal of the evening in the 20th minute, but Sophie Ray ultimately was able to make the save.

Shortly after, Ellie Chapa began to ask questions of the Community backline, putting shots on target in both the 21st and 27th minute that were both saved.

Then, as the pressure was continuing to mount against the Viqueens defense, Olivia Winnett found space from the outside of the box and fired a shot that deflected off the fingertips of the hosts' goalkeeper and into the back of the net to put Cascade in front 1-0 in the 28th minute. Neither team was able to muster up any quality chances in the final 12 minutes of the first half, sending both teams to their benches for halftime with the score still at 1-0.

Both teams continued to battle hard for time on the ball as the second half began, and every challenge was closely contested. In the 60th minute, Cascade's Ella Thompson was booked, picking up a yellow card from her tackle on Alisha Hartsfield that left the Viqueens' midfielder shaken up.

Less than a minute later, Community's Emma Neal was put into the book as well, picking up a soft yellow card of her own on a challenge gone wrong in the midfield.

The hosts' were gifted their best chance of the match to that point in the 63rd minute when Ray double-touched the ball in the box, setting up the Viqueens with an indirect free-kick from 12 yards away. However, Cascade was able to block the attempt on goal to preserve the clean sheet.

Six minutes later, in the 69th minute, Kesley Shatley doubled the Lady Champs' lead after re-directing the ball off her thigh in the box into the back of the net to give Cascade an important 2-0 lead.

Community did not go down without a fight, getting a goal back in the 75th minute after Sara Flanagan played a ball to Stevie Dickenson who was able to slide the ball past Ray in goal to make it a 2-1 game with five minutes to go. Ultimately, it was too little too late, as the Lady Champions held on to secure the number one overall seed in the upcoming district tournament and complete the regular season sweep against their cross-county rival.

Community falls to 3-4-1 (1-4) and is currently scheduled to play at Huntland on Friday, weather permitting.

Cascade improves to 8-2-1 (7-0) and will host Fayetteville on Thursday for Senior Night.

NEW FAMILY PUMPKIN PATCH

Jacob Houston notes that his family has primarily produced cattle over the years. But he's had a dream of maybe developing his family farm into a little bit more. He said one man bought a truck load of pumpkins on Sunday. So if that continues, he's not sure how long the crop will last this year.

This is the first year that Jacob Houston and son, Gatlin, have planted a pumpkin patch together on their family farm. Jacob is a businessman but farming is also in his blood. He believes his son shares the same passion for agriculture.

After a lot of diligence, even despite this summer's dry weather, the Houston family has a bumper crop of orange and white pumpkins, in all sizes and varieties, to offer the community.

One thing little Gatlin Houston loves to do in his pumpkin patch is show folks around, especially pretty little red-headed girls. He also loves to talk about how you plant pumpkin seeds. Ask him, should you visit.
